NORWAY AND VICINITY.

Read the intelligence column. Look on pages 6 and 8. Frank Sloan of Albany is visiting his brother, W. S. Sloan.

We want to print your letter heads and envelopes, cards, tags, etc. Get our prices. Rev. J. H. Little will preach at the Universalist church, Sunday in exchange with the pastor.

Ernest C. Jackson on Deering street raised a ten foot stock of Western corn. The ear is a foot long and kernels well filled. It is on exhibition at C. B. Cummings & Sons' grain mill.

Arthur Hebbard has returned from the Central Maine General Hospital after a stay there of three months. He is getting on finely. He was operated on for appendicitis.

Mrs. Nerva Battles and Little son, Lawrence Norman, have returned to Mechanic Falls, where Mr. Battles has a fine position as foreman in the stock fitting department of the Sprague Shoe Company.

Alton Curtis has been appointed Canadian express agent in the place of G. L. Curtis resigned. The express office is soon to be moved to the Ryerson Building rooms recently occupied by E. M. Thomas.

The preaching services in the Yaggar neighborhood schoolhouse this summer have been well attended. Next Sunday will be the last meeting for the season, and if the day is pleasant Rev. J. H. Little will preach at 3:30 p. m.

The Norway Federation of Women's Clubs will hold its annual business meeting in the vestry of the Congregational church, Thursday, Oct. 28, at 2:30 p. m. After the business meeting there will be a literary program and social time.

C. E. Russell, the ice man, lost a good horse about ten days ago. This is the fourth horse Mr. Russell has lost within six years. Mr. Russell says he feeds well, works the horse hard, and tries to take good care of them.

Stephen Robinson, who boards at I. P. Cobb's, was taken suddenly ill last Thursday night and was taken to the G. M. G. hospital at Lewiston, Friday, and was operated on for hernia. He is getting on as well as could be expected.

The annual fall fox hunt at Camp Clifton is on. M. M. Fuller, Clarence M. Smith, Capt. W. B. Bisbee of Norway and Will Bumpus of Poland, and others are there with dogs and guns. The amount of "fur" captured to date is not reported.

The history of Oxford Lodge, No. 18, F. & A. M., is being published. It is compiled and much of it written by Edward D. Smith. Portions of it have been written by Sylvanus Cobb, Jr., Geo. W. Millett, A. Oscar Noyes, and Merton L. Kimball.

There has been much interest in the meetings of Dr. Wentworth Stewart of Detroit, Mich., that have been held in Norway the past two weeks. They closed with the meeting at the Opera House, Sunday evening. Surely such meetings must do a vast amount of good. Dr. Stewart went away Monday afternoon.

The Huntington monument—a rough boulder from the Weston Frost farm—is loaded on a flat car and J. H. Linson and Henry Sylva are at the car. Bolster monument works are letting it and cutting off one end of the rock before it is shipped to Massachusetts.

Col. M. W. Sampson was recently seen leaning against the Charles Johnson "pass" brooding over the sorrows of this life. On inquiry as to the cause he said, "I'm soon to leave this county, I'm going down to Philadelphia with a pair of horses. I'll drive 'em down to Portland next Monday and ship them from there, and I've got to go with them." The horses belong to Dr. Albert Thompson of that city.

Business at the Novelty Turning Co., Steep Falls, is booming. They are turning out a large amount of goods each week. "Buster" Brown says that some of their help have been unfortunate in the last two or three weeks and have saved the ends of their fingers off, and run their arms into pulleys, but they are getting along and filling their orders very nicely.

Carl Leighton, who has been stenographer in the jobbing department at the shoe factory for over a year and a half, finishes his next week. Mr. Leighton has accepted a position as salesman for the Standard Utilities Corporation of Scranton, Penn., and is to be district manager of eastern Massachusetts, making his headquarters for Lowell, Mass. His family will remain here for the present.

Hunters who go up in the Wild River region should bear in mind that New Hampshire game laws have been changed the past year, and it would be well for them to send to the New Hampshire Fish and Game Commissioners for a copy of the revised laws of fishing and hunting in that State. A fee of $10.00 is exacted from each non-resident who hunts. The resident fee for hunting is $1.00. We understand there is a game warden appointed who has his eye on the Wild River Valley, and Maine sportsmen to avoid trouble, must comply with the laws of that State.

OCTOBER 22, 1909, NORWAY, MAINE.

VOLUME XL.

COL. E. F. SMITH OF NORWAY.

Supreme Judicial Court.

October Term, 1909.

James Carney of Rumford, on two cases search and seizure, appealed from the Rumford Falls municipal court, pleaded nolo contendere Saturday. He will be sentenced later in the term.

Timothy Conway of Rumford, having pleaded guilty on his appealed case for same offense, the prosecution against him was continued for sentence.

Joseph Waznis and Joseph Tenkey of Rumford pleaded guilty to maintaining a nuisance, and their case was continued for sentence.

The nuisance indictment against Albert Coulombe of Rumford was similarly disposed of.

James I. Aiken, William Aiken and Lizzie Aiken of Rumford and Haco, indicted for maintaining a house of ill fame at Rumford, pleaded not guilty, and the trial of this prosecution was commenced before the first jury. They were defended by Judge B. F. Cleaves of the Biddeford municipal court. After the testimony was all in for the prosecution and a part of the defense the court ruled that even if the jury believed the testimony of the State's witnesses, the acts alleged only took place on one night and that this would be insufficient to convict, and thereupon a not-pros was entered and the respondents were discharged.

M. F. Smith of Rumford, indicted for a similar offense at the same place, pleaded nolo contendere and will be sentenced later in the term.

Allie Smith of Canton for common seller of intoxicating liquors, had the same plea entered—continued to March term for sentence.

Ed. Day of Rumford, indicted for stealing a suit of clothing from the store of Charles Israelson at Rumford Falls on the first day of March last and who has been in the insane asylum at Augusta for observation, was tried before the first jury, who reported a verdict of not guilty by reason of insanity. He will be committed to the insane asylum.

Monday morning Bronislav Beliski pleaded guilty on a nuisance indictment. He had been in jail for about three months on sentence and awaiting court, and on motion of County Attorney Parker, the nuisance indictment was continued during good behavior, and he was allowed to go home.

Fred A. Dixon pleaded guilty in several liquor cases. In one he paid fine and costs, and a nuisance indictment was continued for sentence.

In the case against George Duran for assault with intent to kill, upon Harold R. Peary, the county attorney nolo pleaded guilty to assault.

The appeal case of Fred A. Given of Rumford for search and seizure was not pressed by County Attorney on payment of $122.05. The nuisance case against him was continued.

In the prosecution against John Orino of Rumford Falls for selling goods on the Lord's Day, his bail was defaulted, and the judgment of the Rumford Falls Municipal Court was affirmed with additional costs and mitimus was ordered by the court to be issued.

Joe Gillette of Rumford Falls, was tried before the second jury. He was defended by lawyer McCarthy. The evidence against the defendant by another party who had been in the liquor business. The jury returned a verdict of guilty.

The prosecution against Salvatore Avella for felonious assault on a female child was not pressed by the County Attorney.

Divorces Deceased.

Abbie A. Brown vs. Jesse K. Brown, gross and confirmed habits of intoxication from the use of intoxicating liquors.

Maudie L. Lovejoy vs. Chas. W. Lovejoy, cruel and abusive treatment. The libel to pay $500 to the libellant.

Mary E. Hall vs. John F. Hall, desertion continued for more than 3 consecutive years. Children given to the libellant.

Rena J. Scribner vs. Chas. A. Scribner, gross and confirmed habits of intoxication.

Any E. Young vs. Wilton Young, gross and confirmed habits of intoxication.

Jennie F. Trask vs. Ernest L. Trask, cruel and abusive treatment.

Caliste O. Reed vs. Christopher S. Reed, adultery. Libellant's name changed to Caliste O. Wyman.

Chas. E. Tidwell vs. Carrie Tidwell, utter desertion continued 3 consecutive years.

John B. Clements vs. Fannie E. Clements, adultery.

Wendell H. Tripp vs. Carrie M. Tripp, 3 years desertion. Child, Perley W. Tripp, given to libellant.

The W. C. T. U. The October meeting of the Norway W. C. T. U. was postponed from the second to the fourth Tuesday, because of the special religious services held on the regular W. C. T. U. day. The meeting will be at the Methodist parsonage with Mrs. B. G. Wentworth on Tuesday, Oct. 26, at 2:30 p. m. Subject: Health and Heredity, Physical Education. A report of the state convention will be given.

Authority Enough. When Frank Eastman was a boy at his home on Paris Hill he was hired to trim the shade trees for Mrs. Brown and he proceeded to do the same. Samuel Carter was a relative of Mrs. Brown's and he had had charge of Mrs. Brown's estate for years. For some reason he objected to having those shade trees trimmed. He wanted them to have the same effect on the landscape they had always had since his boyhood. But the trees had begun to look so badly and had so many dead limbs that another relative, Hannibal Hamlin, advised her to have the trees trimmed and put into better shape, and his advice prevailed. Thus Eastman was trimming the trees.

Mr. Carter came walking along with his cane and he saw the limbs dropping from the sacred trees and looking aloft saw Eastman up in the tree industriously at work. He stopped short in amazement and shook his cane at the intruder. "By what authority do you do this?" he demanded, quaking with rage and usurped authority.

"By the authority of the Continental Congress and the Great Jehovah," answered Eastman calmly, and kept on with his work.

This was too much for Mr. Carter. He smiled and passed on.

Reginal Dinsmore is painting his buildings.

Fred Rowe, who has been sick with typhoid fever, is convalescing.

Everett Record and A. B. Robbins will leave the last of this week for Wild river, where Mr. Record will build a sporting camp.

Killed By Falling Down Stairs.

Mrs. Melvina Howe, who made her home with her daughter, Mrs. G. K. Ripley at South Paris, sustained fatal injuries in an accident Wednesday evening. Mrs. Howe started to go to bed, and by mistake, instead of opening the door which led to the chamber stairs, opened the door to the cellar stairs, stepped forward, and fell down the stairs. She struck on her head and sustained a fracture of the skull. When taken up she was living, but died half an hour later without regaining consciousness.

Mrs. Howe was the widow of Alvin Howe and was 80 years of age. Of the ten children born to Mr. and Mrs. Howe seven are now

Country Girls Going to Cities.
The Desire to Make Money Draws Them as the Flame Draws the Moth to Destruction.

There seems to have been an increasing exodus of girls from the country, to New York and other large cities, so much so that opportunities for profitable and honorable work, are hard to find, and the vultures that cater to vice are gathering in a harvest of bodies and souls that is bringing broken hearts and dire sorrow to many a country home.

The unsophisticated girl from the country, raised in an atmosphere of good fellowship with all, is an easy victim for the traps that are set for her unwary feet when she reaches what may be aptly termed the gates of hell, in any of our large cities.

Comparatively few girls obtain positions where they earn good wages, as stenographers, bookkeepers, head salesladies, or something of a similar nature, but invariably these girls have positions that require that they dress beyond their means, and they can save but little from their weekly stipend, while the strain of responsibility placed upon their shoulders ages them rapidly. Soon they lose their freshness and attractiveness and then even they begin to feel their downward course, that ends in the case of thousands of former country girls, every year, in the Potter's field. Wrecked in soul and body, pitiful bits of floats and jetsam on the ruthless sea of life. It is terrible, terrible.

The following, written by a New York merchant, is right to the point. This man is one of the many, who, shocked by what he sees, is constrained to tell the truth.

This is the time of year when country girls, rosy cheeked and bright eyed, arrive in bunches in New York.

People who follow labor conditions say that for the last half dozen years the exodus of country girls to New York has far exceeded that of country boys. To stop this exodus they say is not easy.

"One may as well try to stop the Hudson from flowing into the bay," one employer remarked.

"The dishpan has no longer a show when pitted against the typewriting machine, and farmers' daughters are more eager than farmers' sons to turn their backs on the country home. Almost any farmer's wife can tell you with sorrow that this is true and proprietors of New York stores and other industries report that more and more country girls are yearly included among the applicants for work.

"Personally, said the manager of a department store, I am always glad to give a country girl a chance for a better life, but she is a rule anxious to please customers and employers than a city girl usually is, and take it all in all she usually has the better manners.

"But suppose that a city girl and a country girl apply for work in the same store and I have a job for one only—as a rule I will engage the city girl. Why? For two reasons. First, the city girl is certain to know more about store ways than the other. Second, she lives with her parents or a relative, whereas the country girl intends to board with strangers or acquaintances. In other words, the one is safeguarded the other is not.

"If the girl with a home loses her job or is laid off for a few weeks it doesn't make so very much difference to her; she can scratch along. But the country girl paying board to strangers would, be in a good deal of a fix if she lost her job. Then there is the question of pay.

"Few country girls find means to stick at store work. Working in a store is with them a means to an end, their object being to support themselves while studying stenography or something else after business hours, and this requires a certain amount of money. These country girls expect higher wages and is disappointed when she finds that she can hardly get enough to pay her board.

"I have known instances where the country girl has made good and shined out the city girl, but there are certainly not enough of such cases to justify the ever increasing number of inexperienced country girls who flock to New York every fall only to find that not one in 50 can command a living wage at the start by working in the stores.

"Roughly speaking," said a man who has studied for some years the annual influx of young women from the country, "the newcomers may be divided into three classes—those who come to study stenography or a profession, and have a certain allowance to live on meanwhile, those who have learned stenography, typewriting in a smaller city, and those who have learned to do no one thing well, and are looking for work in order to support themselves.

"Of late years the accessions to each class have been increasing tremendously, not altogether, as some persons seem to think, because young women of the present day are more ambitious than their mothers before them, but because it is possible to reach New York at half the expense and in much less time than was possible a score of years ago. The summer boarder has done a lot to inoculate the country girl with the money-making mania. The advertiser's schools of stenography has attracted others.

"So to New York they come, hundreds, yes, thousands of them every year, and only a small proportion are equipped to meet the requirements of a New York office. It is only fair to say that out of the bunch of country girls who arrive here every fall expecting to step into a good paying job, there is always a small proportion who are fairly well educated, have some business sense, and are equipped with a fairly good working knowledge of stenography or some other calling and these have difficulty in getting work.

A few secure good positions and the success of these few often does great harm to less gifted associates left behind in the country.

"If Mamie can make $15 a week, I don't see why I can't do the same," says one and Susie's example, the girl goes to the nearest town for a get-a-quick course in stenography, and from there makes a bee line for New York to undergo hardships and temptations and disappointment such as few city girls ever have to endure, and where the broad way to destruction is thronged.

"The worst of it is that there seems to be no way of limiting, or curbing down, this annual influx of country girls. One never takes warning by the hard experiences of another. Each remembers only the success of the very few. The home village is the place which needs these girls most, and it is there they ought to stay. Nevertheless they will insist on tumbling into New York.

country girls will be as numerous as ever for the next few weeks, although their chances for getting work were never less bright, skilled workers even being far from sure of finding steady employment.

There is one way to stop our girls going to destruction on this road, and that is through our local papers publishing the truth about city life, and refusing to accept advertising from "Correspondence schools where employment is falsely promised when the 'course' is completed.

God forbid that the girls from our happy homes in Oxford County, should be placed as sacrifices upon the altar of this modern Moloch. May the lime-light of truth be thrown upon conditions as they exist, to the end that our girls may be saved, and the nation saved from a suffering untold, saved from a fate worse than death, and left to lead useful and happy lives as the wives of our young men at home.

Park-Rolfe.

Thursday evening, Oct. 14, at the home of the bride's parents in Mexico, took place the marriage of Eva Grace Park and Harry Clifton Rolfe of Rumford.

Rev. J. G. Fisher of the Congregational church of Mexico officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Henry Park, who has been postmaster at Mexico Corner since the Civil war, until within the past few months. She is very well known and is one of the prettiest young women in this section. She was attended by her cousin, Eva Gleason as maid of honor, and Harry Kellogg of Livermore Falls was best man. The bride was given away by Albert Park of South Paris, a brother, and the register of probate for many years in Oxford Co.

After the ceremony, the house was decorated in green and white, with autumn leaves.

Miss Park has been for the past two years clerk and stenographer in the office of C. S. Osgood, roadmaster on the Rangely division of the Maine Central, while the groom is a clerk in the Oxford Paper Mill office. Among the beautiful gifts received is a chest of silver from the Oxford mill.

Mrs. Flora Bartlett Wight.

Mrs. Flora Bartlett Wight of Bethel, died at Augusta, Oct. 5th, aged 43 years. Her brothers, F. D. and Z. W. Bartlett and her husband, W. S. Wight, went to Augusta and she was taken home to Bethel. Funeral services were held at the home of Z. W. Bartlett, which was her childhood home. Rev. O. L. Banghart of the Methodist Episcopal church spoke words of comfort, interment at the East Bethel cemetery. Many floral tributes were silent reminders of much sympathy.

Mrs. Martha Brooks of Bethel was killed by being thrown from a carriage while riding down Baxter hill in Rumford. Her head struck on a stone and her skull was fractured. She lived only twenty minutes after the accident. She was 64 years old. Mrs. Brooks was alone in the wagon. Mrs. Hiram West, who was riding with her, had alighted to walk over the hill. One of the reins broke and the horse becoming frightened overturned the carriage.

Suffering Ended.

Frank Kimball Sells the Remedy that Cured Stomach Trouble of 14 years. And best of all Frank Kimball guarantees to cure you or money back. Read this:

"I have been a great sufferer for 14 years, everything I ate gave me heartburn. I have never been able to get anything that would give me any relief until a friend of mine insisted on my taking Mi-o-na. I took a 50 cent box and I believe I am entirely well."—F. M. Bryan, Newman, Ga., June 25th.

Mi-o-na is not a nostrum; it is the prescription of a celebrated physician who is a specialist in stomach diseases.

One clever woman calls Mi-o-na the Sunshine Prescription, because it changed her from a miserable, nervous dyspeptic into a bright, healthy, happy woman in a few weeks.

These little Mi-o-na tablets are surely wonder workers. They absolutely cure indigestion whether acute or chronic. They stop belching, gas in stomach, and heaviness, in a few minutes. Distress after eating vanishes as if by magic when one or two little Mi-o-na tablets are swallowed.

Only 50 cents a box at leading druggists everywhere, and in Norway by Frank Kimball, proprietor of the Noyes drug store. Test sample free from Booth's Mi-o-na, Buffalo, N. Y. 41-43.

You Never Tasted Such Superb Coffee

You who would know the distinctive goodness of perfectly roasted coffee—for your own sake try a cup of "Fifth Avenue" Coffee, New York's famous coffee.

For here is a coffee so smooth, rich and superbly aromatic that you will never drink any other beverage after you have once tasted it.

"Fifth Avenue" Coffee is a blend of the finest coffees grown. We select the choicest berries from the cream of the world's coffee crop. Berries that are richest in the aromatic oil which forms the flavor and fragrance of coffee.

Then we mix these coffees to secure our blend.

We spent years to obtain the blend that you get in "Fifth Avenue" Coffee. Years of tests and experiments to find out what people liked best in coffee.

The result is a coffee unapproached in flavor and fragrance.

You have only to taste "Fifth Avenue" Coffee to realize how perfect coffee can be.

"Fifth Avenue" Coffee is roasted in closed cylinders over glowing coals. The cylinders revolve over the fire. No flames or noxious gases can touch the coffee. No other coffee is roasted this way.

We experimented for years to learn that it takes 35 minutes to roast coffee to the exact degree of perfection. Every berry is roasted all the way through. The kernel is of the same rich, crisp brown as the outer shell.

That is why "Fifth Avenue" Coffee has the full coffee flavor that you don't get in other brands of coffee.

For other coffees are only roasted half way through. Just as biscuits that are half baked are unpalatable, so is coffee that is half roasted flat and flavorless.

Beware of Gas Roasted Coffee
Most coffee is roasted in perforated cylinders by gas. The hot gas flames pass through the holes in the cylinders, and in many cases the coffee passes through the gas flames. Thus, the noxious fumes from the gas intermingles with the coffee.

That is the chief reason why most coffees disagree with so many people. And with this gas heat the coffee turns brown in ten minutes. But it is roasted only outside. Inside it is raw. And you cannot make good coffee from half raw berries.

That is why most coffees are weak—flat and weedy in flavor. That is why it takes so much ordinary coffee to get the desired strength.

And no matter how much ordinary coffee you use, you cannot get the fine, full-bodied flavor and exquisite aroma distinctive with "Fifth Avenue" Coffee. It takes 35 minutes of roasting to get this.

Avoid Bait Coffee
"Fifth Avenue" Coffee is packed in airtight tins. Thus we preserve its full strength, flavor and cleanliness for your enjoyment.

Coffee that is sold from open bins is unhealthy. For loose coffee is exposed to germs, dirt and dirt which adhere to the oily exterior of the coffee beans.

Moreover, roasting tends to open the pores in the berries. And these pores absorb foreign odors. Thus impairing the fine coffee flavor and fragrance.

For your own protection and satisfaction, insist upon "Fifth Avenue" Coffee.

Then you'll have a coffee that will satisfy every member of your household. Think what it means to know such a coffee and to serve it every day.

Results That Count in Truth.

To the Editor: In your issue of Oct. 15, there appeared an interesting communication under the headline, "Blood Tests, Results Count."

In the article the writer uses these words regarding the action of the committee of judges of the Oxford County Agricultural Society, who gave a blue ribbon to a grade Percheron horse from Missouri, while an animal bred by M. C. Aveline, president of the Percheron society in France, was given second premium.

It was a fair proposition to take into consideration manifest results. The colts were there as well as the sires.

The real goods are sometimes distinguishable from "gold bricks" and the men who pass honest judgment and do not thereby easily survive any amount of unjust criticism. There is the meat of this unknown writer's message to horse breeders.

He does not say that the get of the stallion in question were passed upon by the judges. Not at all. He leaves that, however, to be inferred.

Let us see what the facts are. First of all the committee did not come near to the true Percheron to decide whether it was worthy of any place at all in the awards before reaching a decision.

Secondly, the committee never examined the "results" which the bold writer of this anonymous contribution to current literature sees fit to denounce as "gold bricks." Therefore the "results" which he infers count for so much do in reality count for nothing.

Further the colts of both sires were passed upon by another committee with the result that while the get of the blue ribbon stallion took two prizes out of six, the other four went to colts of the red ribbon animal.

These are truly "results that count." I do not pretend to analyze or explain the reasoning (?) of the committee which made the rewards in the draft stallion class.

I do not hesitate to declare that breeders seeking colts free from undesirable blood, will without hesitation overrule the decision of the committee when as a court of last resorts they pass upon the merits of the issue by choosing a stud.

Maine Buying Own Bonds.

In an advertisement of a sale of certain lots of State of Maine bonds maturing in 1910, the Boston Banking firm sends out this statement: "The State of Maine, having an area of 33,040 square miles, is nearly equal in size to the combined states of New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and Connecticut."

Maine is one of the few states in the union which has been constantly reducing its debt, largely by purchasing its own securities, which fact is shown by the following statements: On January 1, 1870, the total debt was $3,100,000; on January 1, 1880, $2,560,000; on January 1, 1890, $1,380,000; on January 1, 1900, $608,000.

Of all the New England states, Maine is the smallest net debtor. Its total debt of only one dollar per capita is less than any other state in New England. Maine is the richest State in New England in natural resources.

With its railroads, abundant water powers, extensive coast line fringed with many natural harbors, it is showing a remarkable commercial activity. Its thousands of beautiful lakes make it one of the prominent resorts of the country. Its products are known the world over.

Fred F. Burnham of Norway, on the 15 of Jan., 1909, with force and arms entered the residence of Sumner O. Newcomb at night and stole a quantity of goods. He was found guilty and sent to prison.

Hilaire E. Mercier of Rumford committed the crime of perjury in the case of 1896, later establishing business of his own in which he has met with success.

A case which had been expected to occupy considerable time, but the outcome of which came sooner than anticipated, was the indictment against Albert B. Sanborn of Hiram for assault with a dangerous weapon with intent to kill. This case was begun early in the afternoon Saturday.

Albert B. Sanborn is a laboring man 37 years of age. A grandson of his, a Tarbox boy, nine months old, was stricken with pneumonia last spring and after a few days' illness died on the 5th of May. The child was attended by Dr. Charles E. Wilson of Hiram. The grand jury, however, had been exceedingly ingly attached to the boy, and was much affected by his death. He had also been displeased by Dr. Wilson not meeting with another physician who had been called to see the child.

Between 5 and 6 o'clock of the 6th of May, the day after the child's death, Sanborn went to the house of Dr. Wilson with a loaded revolver in his hand, and going into the house inquired for Dr. Wilson. Dr. and Mrs. Wilson were then driving. He came into the yard just about that time and Sanborn followed them into the stable. He told Dr. Wilson that he had come to kill him, and covered him with the revolver. Mrs. Wilson ran into the house and summoned the neighbors. Sanborn continued his talk for some time, and as the neighbors came into the stable one by one warned them to stand back. Finally Dr. Wilson made a break through the door of the stable near which he was standing and stable near which he was standing and the same instant the revolver was discharged without effect, and the doctor's son, Charles L. Wilson, jumped and wrenched the revolver from Sanborn's hand. He was then seized by the men in the stable and placed under arrest.

County Attorney Parker conducted the case for the state, and Hon. James S. Wright was attorney for Sanborn. A large number of witnesses were in attendance. The case had proceeded but a little way before questions in Mr. Wright's cross-examination brought out the fact that a plea of insanity at the time of the act might be possible, and Judge Emery suggested sending the trial and committing Sanborn to the insane hospital for observation. This suggestion led to conferences by the counsel and the court, and after about half an hour it was finally agreed that the state should not press so much of the indictment as alleged intent to kill, and Sanborn pleaded guilty to assault.

This took the case from the jury, and Judge Emery heard evidence to aid him in fixing the sentence. Sanborn was placed on the stand and told the story. He was badly affected throughout the proceedings, and at times had difficulty making answers to the questions asked him. In going over the incidents of the 6th of May, he said that he had no recollection of getting into the stable, and only a partial recollection of what followed until the discharge of the revolver brought him to some consciousness of what was going on.

After hearing so much of the evidence against him, and after a brief argument by counsel, Judge Emery took the matter of the sentence under consideration.

Monday afternoon the case of Maurice R. Fogg of Hartford was commenced.

Mr. Fogg is the Superintendent of the factory at Hartford and it is alleged that he maintained a liquor nuisance at the boarding house near the factory. It seems that some three weeks in the vicinity of the last of June and first of July Mr. Fogg had let the second floor of the boarding house to a Mr. Rand, who lived there and boarded himself.

On the fourth of July there was some liquor drunk among certain parties who were present at the boarding house.

The express order sent to Mr. Fogg between May 25 and July 4, were read and a long-necker and several wrappers were produced which were prepared by the sheriffs who searched the premises and found a quantity of bottles and some kegs.

Mr. Fogg affirmed that he was in the habit of taking a drink when he desired it and accounts for the shipments which he received as being ordered by him for his own use and some of his friends who came to him and asked him to order some for them when he sent.

Joe Gerry was one of the men present at the boarding house on Sunday night and affirmed that he had drunk while there, but did not say that Mr. Fogg was the one who passed the liquor, he thought they all did their share.

Clytie Braden witnessed that she met Gerry early Monday morning and he was intoxicated. When he had left her home at 11 o'clock the night before he was sober. He had stopped at the boarding house that night and when she saw him the next morning he was staggering.

Tuesday morning court opened and the Fogg case continued. Among the witnesses for the defense were Steven B. Rand of Rumford Falls, D. E. Millett, W. F. Benson, A. H. Howe, East Sumner, B. Tinkham, Mr. Polard and Mr. Ford of Hartford and Albert M. Fogg of Sumner.

The hearing of the witnesses took till nearly noon when the case was given to the jury.

The judge in his charge to the jury explained the case in a fine comprehensible manner. He said that Mr. Fogg was not charged with selling or keeping intoxicating liquors, but is charged with maintaining a nuisance and if it could be proven that if he had maintained a nuisance for one hour during the time stated in the indictment he would be keeping a nuisance. He showed that if this holding was proven to be a place of resort where liquors were given away the verdict would be in favor of the State. He also explained the difference when a person invited his friends to his apartments and treats them than when people gather at a particular place, invited, for the purpose of getting something to drink.

The Judge discharged the jurors at a little past two Tuesday afternoon.

BETHEL.

Bethel Grange Work.

There was a special meeting of Bethel Grange last Friday evening, with work in the 3d and 4th degrees. The Master of the State Grange, C. S. Stetson, with the district deputy, A. E. Morse, and the State chaplain, Rev. J. H. Little, were present. The State Master initiated the candidates, exemplifying and explaining the degree work with the signs and signals of the order, in a way that was very impressive and instructive to all present. It was one of the most interesting meetings ever held by Bethel Grange. After the work of initiating the State Master gave a very interesting and valuable address on Grange work and at the close a rousing vote of thanks was unanimously extended to Mr. Stetson and the other officers present for their presence and assistance.

Rev. J. H. Little preached at Mason, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Next Sunday, Rev. Mr. Ward of Norway will occupy the Universalist pulpit here in exchange with Mr. Little.

At the meeting of the Young People's Union last Sunday evening the vestry was full almost to an overflow and extra seats had to be brought in.

Sarah B. Chapman has graduated from the Wentworth hospital in Dover, N. H., and has returned to her home in Bethel, where she will make her headquarters.

Saturday's and Sunday's showers here were snow flurries on the adjacent hills and summits of the highest peaks last Monday morning were white with snow.

Mr. Beal, who was in the glove business here for a while, is moving this week to Lewiston, and Rev. Mr. Little will occupy the house vacated by Mr. Beal as soon as a furnace can be put in.

The ladies of the Universalist society held a sociable in Odeon Hall, Friday evening of last week, to raise funds to purchase new anthem books for the choir. There was a large attendance and the evening was so well enjoyed that it was decided to have a similar gathering once a month during the winter. The proceeds were sufficient to purchase the anthem books and also books for the Universalist Sunday school.

GROVER HILL.

Little Ethel Stearns visited at N. A. Stearns' over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Heaward were in Upton, Monday, where occurred the funeral of Mrs. Martha C. Brooks.

The people of this place were greatly shocked to learn of the terrible accident at Rumford last Friday, which resulted in the death of Mrs. Martha C. Brooks of this place. A great deal of sympathy is expressed for the bereaved family, especially Mrs. James A. Heaward, the only daughter of the deceased, to whom her mother was very dear.

REBORN.

A crew of men are working on the State road.

D. F. Cummings recently sprained her knee.

Mary L. Merrill of Portland has been working at Ezekiel Merrill's.

A. D. Richmond of Dover, N. H., has been visiting at J. S. Bumpus'.

NORWAY AND VICINITY.

50th Marriage Anniversary.
Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Sawin observed the 50th anniversary of their married life last week, Tuesday. Owing to Mr. Sawin's poor health only a few were present—Mr. and Mrs. J. E. McIntire, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. McIntire, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. McIntire and Mr. and Mrs. C. S. McIntire. Letters were received from many friends and those present greatly enjoyed hearing the letters read. A beautiful poem was also read, written by Mrs. S. A. Wheeler of Waltham, Mass.

They received a liberal number of presents in coin and various articles of beauty and value.

The day was set apart for a happy day with their friends who came in the forenoon and stayed until well into the afternoon. At noon a most appetizing lunch was served.

Strange but True.
Nellie Drew is the owner of a strange rooster. She has seen him catch two mice. Don't you think he would be as good as a cat to let loose in the house to catch mice? He is a full blooded White Leghorn.

Eva G. Richardson of Greenwood Hollow, the daughter of Chas. A. Richardson, brings to the ADVERTISER office ripe raspberries as large and fine flavored as any in their season. They have had them served at meals twice of late, each time a good generous supply. They are of the wild variety and grew on their Greenwood farm.

Heleen Noyes is spending the week in Portland.

Thomas Poirier and wife of Richmond, Que., are visiting Mrs. Poirier's sister, Mrs. Charles E. Gilbert.

Alton Allen is doing quite a business for the season gathering strawberries. There are plenty of blossoms on the same plants.

Willie Durrell of Northwest Norway has raised a potato this year that is composed of 11 potatoes all joined together. It weighs 1 1/2 pounds.

George W. Holmes has a butternut tree in his yard that has yielded ten bushels of nuts and he estimates that there are ten more bushels on the tree.

Fred M. Davis on Maple street is a big potato raiser as well as a good painter. He showed us a potato weighing 2 pounds 5/8 ounces, which he raised in his garden.

A. H. Foster at the Center of the town had a Baldwin apple tree that was loaded with fruit. On one of the small limbs about three feet long, there were twenty large apples. The tree was about ten years old.

E. N. Thomas is having rooms fitted up in the old of the Old Bartlett store, and will move his repair and shoemaking rooms from the Ryerson block there. Mr. Thomas has occupied his present place of business six years.

Howard R. Stevens, the vocal teacher of Portland, will begin his Norway season October 26, and will be at the studio of Mrs. Herman L. Horne every Tuesday beginning with this date. Those who wish to engage time for lessons may do so by telephoning Mrs. Horne.

Albert Canwell has gone deer hunting up to his adoptive son's, William Durrell's, at Northwest Norway. His wife is soon to join him. Nellie Drew is going to stay and take care of the hens while they are gone. He has a beautiful flock of Rhode Island Reds, about a hundred in all. The rooster took the first prize at the Bridgton fair.

The Senior Class of the N. H. S. held their first supper and social of the season at Concert hall, Friday evening. A fine baked bean, pastry and salad supper was served at six o'clock. After the supper the usual social was held and games were played till a late hour. There was a good attendance to both supper and social and the seniors realized a nice little sum in return for their efforts.

The rugs lost by the Waterford stage driver belonging to Steve McAllister were found by Des Lowell, William Durrell's wife's father. While going home from his work the horse refused to go. Mr. Lowell got out to see what the trouble was and found this large bundle of ten rugs and a lady's cape. He returned it to the Norway ADVERTISER office and we hope they have found their owner. The rugs were valued at ten dollars. If every one was as honest as they were, there would be more and their lost things.

Supreme Judicial Court.

October Term, 1909.

The grand jury reported an indictment against Albert Sanborn of Hiram charging him with intent to kill.

The action of Harris L. Elliott against Matthew McCarthy for charges made during the State political campaign of last year regarding the enforcement of the liquor laws at Rumford Falls in which the defendant recovered judgment on the trial of the case at the May term, and which was carried to the law court by the plaintiff on motion for a new trial, the evidence not having been filed in court, the judge has ordered that judgment be rendered on the verdict for the defendant. This finally disposes of the action.

In the case of Wilbur L. Farrar against Dr. Alfred King for alleged malpractice in performing an operation on him for gall stones where the court at the May term ordered a non-suit, a similar disposition was made of it and judgment has been rendered on the verdict for the defendant, who recovers costs of suit.

In the suit for trespass for cutting timber of Elliott M. Luce, admr., vs. Lewis M. Mann which was referred to A. S. Kimball and Lester Tebbetts (the latter having died) the referee reported a judgment for the plaintiff for $125.00, which was accepted.

In action of trespass of Charles E. Richardson et al, against Robain Arsenault et al, to in effect determine a line between adjoining owners of land, which was referred to Dr. James S. Wright, Waldo Feltzengill and Henry Nelson, the referees award $68 to the plaintiff.

Ralph T. Parker, esq., referee in suit of Will S. Marble against Burleigh Smith, applt., on decision of judge of the Rumford Falls municipal court, reported a judgment for the plaintiff for $8.25, the same sum awarded by the court below.

The following are the special jurors summoned for the trial of criminal cases, on account of five jurors having been excused, W. Frank Cox and Geo. W. Holmes of Norway; Wirt Stanley, Irvin E. Lewis and R. Thomas Flavin of Paris.

The grand jury completed its work for the October term at noon Friday and reported 42 indictments, 40 of which were made public as follows:

Joseph Waznis, liquor nuisance.
Joseph Finley, liquor nuisance.
Salvatore Ayelin, criminal assault.
Brookston Bellini, nuisance.
Fred F. Burnham, breaking, entering and larceny.

Albert Conlon, nuisance.
James Aiken, keeping house of ill fame.
William Aiken, keeping house of ill fame.
Lizzie Aiken, keeping house of ill fame.
Stanley Cyr, nuisance.
Eda Cyr, nuisance.

Thomas Curran, nuisance.
Maurice R. Fogg, nuisance.
Charles Winslow, 3 indictments larceny.
Fred A. Dixon, nuisance.
Al. F. Smith, keeping house of ill fame.
Allie Smith, common seller.

Sidney Russell, larceny.
F. L. Lebel, nuisance.
Michael Urban, 2 indictments larceny.
John Gillis, nuisance.
George Duran, assault with dangerous weapon.

Harry Siddall, nuisance.
James H. Gallacher, nuisance.
James McKenzie, larceny.
Albert A. Lukin, 2 indictments larceny.
Freeman Hamble, single sale.

Georgiana Fortin, nuisance.
Joseph Chase, receiving stolen goods.
Abram Khan, receiving stolen goods.
Joseph Lissman, receiving stolen goods.
Burgess Yarn, larceny.

Lucien Martin, forgery.
Albert B. Sanborn, assault with dangerous weapon.
Ed Day, larceny.

Walter I. Abbott, 3 indictments for larceny; 1 indictment breaking out of lockup.
Fred Fogg, nuisance.
Charles Johnson, adultery.

F. L. Lebel pleaded guilty to maintaining a liquor nuisance at Rumford Falls in his tailor shop, on the search and seizure process appealed from the Rumford municipal court, the judgment of the lower court was affirmed with additional costs and he paid a fine of $100, costs of $12.91. On future good behavior the nuisance indictment remains hanging over him.

Thomas Curran of Rumford pleaded guilty to maintaining a nuisance at his dwelling house at Rumford. He had appealed a prosecution against him originating in the municipal court, and the same disposition was made of his case as that of Lebel's. Curran paid a fine of $100 and costs taxed at $18.54.

Shortly before noon Saturday the jury, which heard the evidence in the case of State vs. Mike Urban of Rumford, returned a verdict not guilty. Urban was indicted upon two charges of larceny and pleaded not guilty to both. He was tried

ANOTHER WOMAN CURED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Gardiner, Maine.—"I have been a great sufferer from organic troubles and a severe female weakness. The doctor said I would have to go to the hospital for an operation, but I could not bear to think of it. I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash and was entirely cured after three months' use of them."—Mrs. S. A. Williams, R. F. D. No. 14, Box 39, Gardiner, Me.

No woman should submit to a surgical operation, which may mean death, until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made exclusively from roots and herbs, a fair trial.

This famous medicine for women has for thirty years proved to be the most valuable tonic and restorer of the female organism. Women residing in almost every city and town in the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It cures female ill and creates radiant, buoyant female health. If you are ill, for your own sake as well as those you love, give it a trial.

Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

upon the first indictment, that of taking three bank bills from a fellow Polander. After the verdict was received the second case was not pressed.

There was an evening session of the court to hear divorces, lasting until after ten o'clock. Some 15 cases were heard. Two were dismissed for informality. Decreases will not be entered till later in the term.

Indians Increase 40,000 in 20 Years.

The popular idea that the American Indians are decreasing in number is dissipated by official figures showing that, Monday there were more than 300,000 red men in the United States.

The increase in population of about 40,000 during the last two decades is attributed to the government's constant effort to uplift the race to the level of contemporary civilization. The government is not only providing this race with its powerful protection, but is providing every means for the uplifting and enlightenment of the race and is injecting civilized customs and modern methods into the Indians' daily life.

Three and one-third million dollars is being expended by the United States annually for the education of more than 80,000 Indian boys and girls. Looking to the broader and practical education of the Indian, the government is extending its system of apportioning lands.

The cultivation of these allotments by the Indians, or the letting of them for short periods to white persons for farming or grazing, is a matter toward which the Indian service is directing much attention.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

The more a boy's education costs the less he seems able to cash in on it.

The more sisters a man has the less he can understand some other fellow's. There's hardly a scandal that sounds so thrilling to a woman as when somebody tells it to her coming home from church.

The executive committee of the Maine Teachers' Association has arranged one of the strongest programs ever presented by that association. The meeting will be held in Lewiston, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Oct. 23, 24 and 25, and it is expected that the attendance will be larger than at any previous meeting. Prominent among the speakers who have been secured for the general sessions is Dr. Frank DeWitt Tange, who will deliver the address on Thursday evening.

Two Hundred and Fifty Good Stories.

The Youth's Companion abounds in stirring stories of adventure and heroism. One may describe an escape from accidental peril, another a strange encounter with wild creatures—man or beast.

Many of these stories are true as to facts, and only disguised as to names and places. A score or more of such stories will be published during 1910 in addition to nearly 200 others—250 good stories in all, and no two alike.

This is not counting the serial stories, which it is believed will be considered by old Companion readers as the best. The Companion has ever published.

Every new subscriber will find it of special advantage to send at once the $1.75 for the new 1910 Volume. Not only does he get the beautiful "Venetian" Calendar for 1910, lithographed in thirteen colors and gold, but all the issues of The Companion for the remaining weeks of 1909, from the time the subscription is received.

The Value of Fats in Diet.

The tendency of to-day in many quarters is to exclude as much as possible the fatty portions of animal foods. Pieces of fat are carefully cut off the slice of ham, mutton, or beef, and only the lean parts are eaten. Indeed, for some unaccountable reason the eating of fat is regarded by not a few as positively vulgar.

Such an attitude, of course, displays an ignorance of physiological facts. Cold feet, hands, fingers, ears, and chilblains would in many instances be avoided under a generous diet of fatty food. A digestible fat favors nutrition considerably; it spares much waste of the tissue-forming elements of food.

When lean meat alone is given, large quantities are required in order that nutrition and waste may balance one another, but fat added to the demand for flesh is less. Besides, therefore, giving an advantage in regard to making good the repair of the body, the use of fat is economical from the point of view of pounds, shillings and pence. The absorption of large quantities of fatless meat, again, tends to overload the blood with nitrogenous waste products.

In anemic persons the partaking of an easily digested fat is commonly followed by the best results, nutrition is greatly improved, and the condition of the blood is often restored to normal. It is well known, again, that easily absorbable fats, such as butter, cream, codliver oil, bacon fats and drippings, are especially valuable to sufferers from wasting diseases.

The introduction of the old-fashioned and well-prepared suet pudding into the diet is in perfect accordance with scientific teaching, and from the dietetic point of view, especially in the feeding of young, growing people, does probably a really beneficial service to the country.

The assumed aversion to fat on the part of a great many people is silly and mischievous, for there can be little doubt that a reasonable proportion of fat in the diet is calculated to preserve the standard of health. Cases of true repugnance to fat, of course, exist, but they are rare on the whole they are rare.—The Lancet.

Mr. Whitney, a student of Hebron Academy, while engaged in a game of foot ball, broke his leg above the ankle. He was taken to the hospital in Lewiston.

Edward E. Virgin of Dixfield, has been appointed agent for prevention of cruelty to animals; Edward E. Hastings of Fryeburg, notary public.

Rev. Elliot Barbour of Orange, Mass., has accepted a call to the Universalist church at Rumford Falls. He begins his pastorate the first of November.

SAYS ALBERTA LAND IS CHEAP

Another Visitor Comments on Southern Alberta Opportunities

In common with the many visitors who came to Lethbridge, Dr. Shields, of Dakota, who is spending a short time in this district remarked that he was delighted at the appearance of the city and district. Mr. Shields has already invested to some extent in Southern Alberta lands and is going to invest some more.

"The Southern Alberta lands are the best thing anywhere," he remarked. Mr. Shields went into Dakota when land was as cheap as it is in some places in Alberta now and at present he states that you can't touch it with less than fifty or sixty dollars an acre and land that will raise wheat like is being raised here is sure to reach even higher figures than that. In Dakota Mr. Shields remarked land was reckoned to be worth twice as many dollars as it will grow bushels of wheat per acre.—Lethbridge, Alberta, Daily Herald.

NORWAY, MAINE

California As It Is.

We were finely located in the southern part of the state. The weather the past few days has been much like the middle of the day there, the nights and mornings were quite cool. Ice made in the drinking dish in the hen yard only one night for the winter, but it did not seem cold enough to hurt the trees or flowers. There were many beautiful flowers and as they have no cold weather the rose bushes grow to be trees or long vines across a veranda or the end of a house, and when they were covered with blossoms were a handsome sight, but the single blossoms were no prettier than grow right here in Maine.

Along each side of the street of a great many of the cities and towns, nearly all of them, there was a curbing, then a strip of earth about two feet wide, then the sidewalk, and this strip of earth was growing full of geraniums, nearly always a pink or a bright scarlet. They seem to grow without any care whatever. The people who live along the street usually water them when they water their grounds, which they have to do nearly every day.

Everything there has to be watered every four or five weeks. They had to ridge up the land in the orange groves. The walnut groves do not require water as often.

They would plow a furrow about every three rods and make a ridge about seven or eight inches high both ways of the land, so that it was in blocks, then let on the water at the highest place, let it run over that block, then break down a place in the next ridge and let it wet that block and so on. After about a week they go on with a harrow and level up the land. Then in a month they have to do it all over again.

It seemed to me a lot of hard work, and many times the oranges will hardly pay the bills. We could go to the packing houses and get culls for 10 or 15 cents a bushel. They were as good, many of them, as we ever get here. If they had a scale on them they were thrown out. If they had grown too fast and the navel bulged, they were thrown out. If they were too large or too small they were thrown out. If the tender feet did not buy them all they were hauled out and dumped.

The walnuts were fine. We were on a nut ranch and gathered and ate about six bushels while we were there.

The land where we were was very level. It was between the mountains and the ocean. The streets in these little towns were nearly all of them oiled and the roads that had the most travel. But going from one town to another, which would be about three or four miles, you would find short streets that had not been oiled and on these the sand was about six inches deep.

We went to the town of Orange and had to cross the Santa Anna river, the second largest river in Southern California. The bridge was a quarter of a mile long. Our friends had told us we must cross this river and when we got there there was not a drop of water to be seen. Teams were driving up and down the river bed and it was all sand. That was in February, but they told by that time the river had melted from the mountains, but a greater part of the year it is dry. There are many poisonous insects and the mountains and foothills abound in snakes.

There are no grass fields there. They sow barley and oats for their hay and have fields of alfalfa. This they cut five times a year. They flood it for a day or two after they cut it and then it grows again. Many of the ranchers stake their cows on their alfalfa fields as they have no pastures. I did not like the milk or butter from a cow that was fed on alfalfa. It had a queer taste and odor.

The ranchers were very poor. They would put money enough into a ranch to live on in the east and do nothing the rest of their lives, and there they would work hard to make a living. The man on the next ranch to where we were paid $12,000 for the ranch and they were very poor. The horses were so thin I knew they did not get enough to eat, and the people looked the same.

It was in Orange county, the most prosperous farming section of Southern California, that they claim it is the poorest of the county. The county they build a wall around they need except tea, and they could do without that. They have a great many oil wells. Here are acres of wheat and fine flour mills and they raise thousands of tons of sugar beets and have large refineries. They have no forests but set out trees for their wood, mostly eucalyptus which grows very quickly. Some trees grow 16 feet in height in a year and in five or six years they are large enough for wood. They cut them about three feet from the ground and the tops will come up around the trunk. They let four or five of them grow and in a short time they are large enough for wood. Most of the ranchers have two or three rows of trees set out on one side of the ranch and that is their wood lot.

They can raise two crops a year on their land but I do not think that the two crops would be worth as much as one that grew in New England. The vegetables are tasteless, the potatoes were very watery and the tops wither and there, but the people there seemed to think they were all right. I said to a man, "They are too watery," and he told me I should have seen some he raised when he lived at Sacramento. You could squeeze water out of them with your hands. They do not have the potato bug to fight as they have never ventured across the Rocky Mountains but they have a white worm that eats into the stalk and the tops wither and die if they are not sprayed. There are a gopher there as here. They have a gopher that is very destructive. They live in the ground and eat the roots from the young trees and kill them and the lawns are made of dirt, spoiling throw up great mounds of dirt, spoiling the lawn. Then they have a squirrel that is worse than our wood-chuck.

The fruits were fine but the most of them have just a short season, the same as they do here and you have to can or preserve them. Even the apples there would keep only a short time. They used to can them for pies.

The cities seemed much like eastern cities, but the streets were laid out more evenly and one could get lost more easily there. The holidays there. You could go for half fare on any of the cars, steam or electric, to the mountains or to the ocean, just as you chose, but you would find a crowd wherever you went.

One day we went to the big Cawston ostrich farm and saw many things of interest, birds from four weeks old to 25 years. The thing I was most interested in there was the feather factory. They were bleaching and coloring them then drying them out. It was a strange process but they came out beautiful feathers.

FAMOUS DOCTOR'S PRESCRIPTION.

The natural feathers are dull gray, the most of them, a few white ones on the male birds and some were quite black. The guide told us many things about them that I have not time to tell you. I could write much more about the country that interested me, and of our trip home through the south, but will not take any more time.

Hallowe'en Night.

Something About the Season and Its Observance.

All Hallowe'en is a season that is celebrated for two reasons: As a festival season of legendary origin, and as a religious festival. The day is All Saints' day in the Catholic church.

Of legends about All Hallowe'en there are enough to fill a good sized library. In England it is called "apple night," on account of the practice of catching apples, which are allowed to float about in tubs of water, thus making them difficult of access as possible. Then, too, the rule is that you must catch them with your teeth which makes them seem all the more "toothsome" when you finally do get them. In Scotland, the land of myths, it is called "witches' night." Fairies, sprites and hobgoblins run at large and make the whole world a dangerously spooky place to live in.

In Ireland they call it "cabbage night," or "cane night," on account of the general belief that all cabbages and kale that are left out as late as Oct. 31 will be defiled by the witches and made unfit to eat. The probability is that the popular belief in this night of nights goes back beyond the dawn of Christianity and of all history, oral and written, and extends to mingles with the Walpurgis night of the German traditions, becoming a part of the folk-lore which Goethe and others worked over into Faust, and taking a place among the primitive faiths of the human race. The same story with unknown variations is told in India, and racial variations is told in Japan and Siberia. For some reason unknown to students, the ancient Walpurgis nights entertainments of Germany have been shifted through removal from May 31, in the Hartz mountains, to Oct. 31, in the British Isles, though the general character of the observances is unaltered and seemingly unchangeable.

As to the religious significance of the day Nov. 1, the facts are well known. They antedate history itself which at best is sometimes legendary. It was long years after the crucifixion that the Roman emperors consented to treat members of the new Christian sect with tolerance and after the Romans had ceased to torture and persecute the Christians, others long years had to elapse before Christianity became acknowledged as the "state" religion. At some time during the seventh century after Christ the struggling Christians had gained such recognition in Rome that the ancient and stately Pantheon was changed over from a heathen temple where barbarous rites were performed, into a Christian church for the worship of God. The date of the rededication of this ancient structure is Nov. 1. As to the year, there is some dispute among authorities, though it is somewhere between A. D. 650 and A. D. 680. Because of this great triumph of Christianity over paganism and the worship of false gods, the day was called All Hallowmas and of course the evening before was All Hallowe've.

Care of the Teeth.

It would surprise many women who consider themselves hygienic in the care of their teeth to know that they are not. Cleaning the teeth three times a day is of little avail if it is not done correctly. Brushing may be actually harmful if too rough or in such a direction as to push the gums back from the teeth.

Clean the teeth at least twice a day, preferably after each meal. Never neglect it before going to bed, when the mouth is quiet and there is no flow of saliva dental decay is most active.

Keep your tooth brush hygienic. Let it hang where it will get sun and air. Wash it occasionally in a good disinfectant. Throw it away at sign of loosened bristles. One of these lodging in the throat may give serious trouble. Brush the teeth gently with a rotary motion so the bristles will penetrate between the teeth. Do not scrub the teeth and gums as much harm is done in this way.

Never neglect to brush the edge of the teeth, also on the inner surface. When not using a rotary motion brush, downward on the upper teeth and upward on the lower.

If your teeth are at all irregular use dental floss or a quill toothpick. A metal pick is apt to injure the teeth and the wooden ones may splinter. Remember that three-fourths of the trouble with teeth commences between the teeth.

When tartar has formed on the teeth close to the gums have it removed by a dentist. It is the forerunner of decay. This should be done twice a year by the most persons, sometimes oftener, where most persons rapidly from overacidity in the system.

Hunting Very Noisy.

The warm weather and the fallen leaves has made conditions rather poor for the hunters the past two weeks. The partridge are scarce and very wild. Many of the leaves have been fallen and for any kind of hunting are of the worst sort. A cold with a little frost and rain would improve matters and until the weather changes but little game of any kind will be seen.

Curing Colds in Advance.

Eight-tenths of all colds are mild infections, which run their course until the body has time to produce an antitoxin or antibody to stop their further progress. As this progress in reasonably healthy individuals is usually carried out in from four to six days, anything which happens to be given in that time stands a fair chance of getting a reputation as a cure.

The only cure for colds and coughs is to avoid the infections and the foul air of ill-ventilated rooms and buildings in which they breed; to keep the body toned up to fighting pitch, by cold baths and an abundance of fresh air, especially in the bedroom; and, if the infection does get a foothold to assist Nature in her fight against it by rest in the open air, and promoting elimination through the skin, bowels and kidneys.

In fine, don't tinker with symptoms; look for the cause and remove it. Don't try to lock the stable door after the horse is stolen, but train your horse to bite strangers. Attack is the best defense. Keep your body at good fighting weight, and you can defy disease. Sunlight, food, fresh air and exercise are the only cure-alls known. Don't worry about disease and what to take when you're sick, but work for health.

Wheat Cleaned Six Times

"The equipment for wheat cleaning is as extensive and expensive as that for grinding purposes. The freedom of flour from dirt and bacteria shows in its appearance."

Prof. Wm. Jago, National Association Bakers.

Wheat specially selected for William Tell Flour is stored in hermetically sealed tanks, at Ansted & Bur's big mills.

It is cleaned six times before grinding. Everything—even the sewing of the bags—is done by clean, bright machinery. William Tell Flour has the brilliant bloom such as only Ohio wheat can have. Ask your dealer, and insist on having—
